

Evaluation of Innovative Lesson Planning Models in English Language Teaching

Mirvari Gahramanova

Abstract. This study examines innovative lesson planning models in English language teaching and evaluates their effectiveness in developing learners' communicative competence. A qualitative review of current pedagogical literature was conducted to identify the principles of learner-centred lesson planning, task-based instruction, technology integration, and formative assessment. The findings indicate that innovative lesson planning improves learner engagement, collaboration, critical thinking, and language performance. The study concludes that flexible lesson plans integrating authentic materials and digital resources better address the needs of modern language learners.

Xülasə. Bu tədqiqat ingilis dili tədrisində innovativ dərslər planlaşdırma modellərini araşdırır və onların tələbələrin ünsiyyət bacarıqlarının inkişaf etdirilməsindəki effektivliyini qiymətləndirir. Tələbəyə yönəlmiş dərslər planlaşdırması, tapşırıq əsaslı təlimat, texnologiya inteqrasiyası və formativ qiymətləndirmə prinsiplərini müəyyən etmək üçün mövcud pedaqoji ədəbiyyatın keyfiyyətə nəzərdən keçirilməsi aparılmışdır. Nəticələr göstərir ki, innovativ dərslər planlaşdırması tələbələrin iştirakını, əməkdaşlığını, tənqidi düşüncəsini və dil performansını yaxşılaşdırır. Tədqiqat nəticəsində belə bir nəticəyə gəlinir ki, orijinal materialları və rəqəmsal resursları birləşdirən çevik dərslər planları müasir dil öyrənmələrin ehtiyaclarını daha yaxşı ödəyir.

Introduction

Lesson planning is one of the most important components of successful English language teaching. Contemporary educational systems emphasize flexible, learner-centred and technology-supported lesson planning. Innovative planning models encourage communication, collaboration and higher-order thinking. Research demonstrates that lesson plans based on communicative language teaching and task-based learning improve learners' motivation and achievement (Harmer, 2021; Richards, 2022; Nunan, 2021). ## Methods

The study employed qualitative document analysis. Twelve authoritative publications on English language teaching published by international academic publishers were reviewed. The analysis focused on lesson planning models, classroom interaction, assessment strategies and digital learning tools (Nation & Newton, 2020; Tomlinson, 2023). ## Results

The analysis revealed that innovative lesson planning contributes to greater learner participation, improved classroom interaction, stronger listening and speaking performance, and more effective formative assessment. Teachers who integrate authentic materials, collaborative learning, and digital technologies create more engaging learning environments (Brown & Lee, 2020; Rost, 2021; Oxford, 2021). ## Discussion

The findings confirm that modern lesson planning should remain flexible and adaptable to learners' needs. Artificial intelligence, online collaboration platforms, project-based learning, and continuous feedback significantly strengthen lesson quality. Teachers should combine methodological principles with digital literacy to achieve sustainable language learning outcomes (Council of Europe, 2020; Hinkel, 2022; Thornbury, 2021).
